“How I Got Here, from the University of Puerto Rico to Lead Pfizer’s Green Chemistry Program”

Abstract: Diversity and inclusion (D&I) are important topics in the pharmaceutical industry and other industries as well. Changes in demographics of underrepresented groups and the competition for talent, has highlighted the importance of equity and D&I. Increasing the diversity in the workforce, is not just the right thing to do, but a business need. Juan will be sharing the challenges and opportunities that he faced getting from the University of Puerto Rico to his current position at Pfizer, 30 years later. He will also be sharing success stories and ideas for how each of us could navigate this road.

There will be a Q&A session right after the seminar from 1pm—2pm.

Co-hosted by: SACNAS - U of R Chapter and the Department of Chemistry Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Committee.
